

Staff

LEADERSHIP

Leadership means choosing a direction that opens up vast possibilities to bring out the best in others. Our Founding Fathers knew a thing or two about leadership. They knew that the combination of a democratic form of government and a capitalistic economy gave our citizens the opportunity to aim high, chart their own destiny, and realize their version of the American Dream. At a time when our democratic rights and free enterprise system are being chipped away by the proponents of Big Government, Frontiers of Freedom stands tall in our defense of individual liberty and personal responsibility.

Click here to contact a member of our staff.

SENIOR STAFF LISTING:

George C. Landrith, President and CEO

Mr. Landrith has served as the President of the Institute since 1998. He is a graduate of the University of Virginia School of Law, where he was Business Editor of the Virginia Journal of Law and Politics. He had a successful law practice in business and litigation. In 1994 and 1996, Mr. Landrith was a candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives from Virginia's Fifth Congressional District. He served on the Albemarle County School Board. Mr. Landrith is an adjunct professor at the George Mason School of Law.

He is recognized as an authority on constitutional law and jurisprudence, federalism, global warming, and property rights. He has appeared on C-SPAN and most recently FOXNews' Your World with Neil Cavuto.

Scott L. Vanatter, Executive Vice President and COO

Mr. Vanatter is responsible for development, operations, and programs at Frontiers of Freedom. Beginning his career in sales and marketing with Xerox Corporation, he brings over 25 years of business, M&A, political and fundraising leadership. He has also co-founded two political action committees, on fiscal and transportation issues, and family values. He is co-founder of the Access Technology Association. Prior positions held by Mr. Vanatter include: COO at the Corporation for Executive Studies; VP of Campaigns at Morgan Meredith and Associates, and Regional Director at the Business-Industry Political Action Committee.

He has spoken to variety of audiences on such business issues as software and IT security, and political issues from fundraising to the founding fathers.

He earned a bachelor's degree in business administration with a minor in finance from California State University, Fullerton's College of Business and Economics. He and his wife, Becky, reside in Fairfax, Virginia. Their two married daughters live in California and Maryland.

Miklos K. Radvanyi, Vice President, International Policy

Dr. Radvanyi serves as the Institute's Vice President of International Policy. He has earned advanced degrees from the Eotvos Lorand Scientific University, in Budapest, Hungary; the School of Advanced International Studies at Johns Hopkins University; and the National Law Center at George Washington University. He has also served as U.S. Representative Christopher Cox's foreign affairs advisor. He has written extensively and been published in at least three different languages and has lectured around the world on foreign policy and world affairs.

Christopher C. Horner, General Counsel and Senior Policy Adviser

Christopher Horner serves as the Institute's General Counsel and is a Senior Policy Adviser. As an attorney in Washington, D.C. Horner has represented the Institute and Members of the U.S. House of Representatives and U.S. Senate on matters of environmental policy before the United States Supreme Court. He is the author of "The Politically Incorrect Guide to Global Warming and Environmentalism" (Regnery, 2007). Mr. Horner has provided legal, policy and political commentary on both television and radio, in the United States, Europe, Canada, and Australia. He received his Juris Doctorate from Washington University in St. Louis where he received the Judge Samuel Breckenridge Award for Advocacy.

Amrita Singh, Director of Publications

Ms. Singh serves as the Institute's Director of Publications. She has Bachelor of Arts Honors degree in English. Early in her career she worked for British Airways where she was the Chief Liaison officer in dealings with the Government of India. She has also worked in private industry where she successfully ran a small business dealing with exports of gems and jewelry from India. She was a Director of Netcom, an international communications company.